A Message from the Principal

To our Eastway Middle School families:

This is the annual School Progress Report for Eastway Middle. We are sending this to you so that you may be fully informed about our students' academic progress, our staff and our school environment. We will also share with you our plans to address areas of concern.

As you will see from this report, Eastway Middle made Expected Growth on the North Carolina End-of-Grade reading and math tests. In general, students in sixth and eighth grades outperformed the seventh-grade students. Turning to other tests, eighth-grade science performance increased by 14 percentage points, while proficiency in computer skills increased by 40 percent. Finally, 89 percent of our students demonstrated proficiency on the Algebra 1 test.

We did not make Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP), the standard set for schools by the No Child Left Behind Act. Eastway Middle is a diverse, comprehensive middle school, which means that we have many targets to meet for AYP—33 in all, and we met 30 of them.

To address areas needing improvement, we provided professional development for our staff members during the summer. They received training in a number of topics, including the use of thinking maps, curriculum planning, higher-order thinking skills, student engagement and fluency in comprehension. They also learned strategies to enhance students' reading and math skills as well as how to team effectively to improve teaching and learning.

CMS Accountability Measures

The learning of students in public education is measured in multiple ways. There are assessments given at regular intervals by CMS—tests that we use to measure how students are learning as the school year progresses. Other tests are required by the state and given once or twice a year, such as End-of-Course and End-of-Grade tests. Some of the state test results are also used to calculate district progress on the federal standard of Adequate Yearly Progress for each student. This page provides brief explanations of some of the measures and tests used in CMS.

► Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP)

Our school DID NOT make AYP
(30 of 33 goals met)

The federal No Child Left Behind Act requires that every school make Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP). AYP is an all-or-nothing standard: Every target must be met.

State test results are used to set AYP targets. There are separate targets for the school as a whole and for nine subgroups of students: white, black, Hispanic, Native American, Asian, multiracial, economically disadvantaged students, students with limited English proficiency and students with disabilities. Subgroups of students are measured separately so that an overall score for a class or a school does not mask poor results within a subgroup.

Some schools are more diverse than others, so the number of subgroups varies by school. Therefore, the number of AYP targets varies by school, too. Some schools may have only a few targets to meet; others may have the maximum, which is 41. School attendance and graduation rates are also measured for AYP.

For a more complete overview of AYP, visit www.dpi.state.nc.us/nclb/abcayp/overview/ayp

For details of AYP results for our school and its student groups, visit <http://ayp.ncpublicschools.org>

► ABC Designation

Our school's designation: Priority School
(DID meet growth expectations)

Proficiency: 53.1%

The North Carolina ABCs program was introduced more than a decade ago to help schools improve. It uses two basic measures to assess a school's performance: the Average Growth of students (at right); and the Performance Composite, which measures how well students performed against a state-set standard of academic achievement.

Schools are given one of seven designations. In descending order, they are: Honor School of Excellence, School of Excellence, School of Distinction, School of Progress, No Recognition, Priority School, and Low Performing.

For more information about ABCs, visit <http://abcs.ncpublicschools.org/abcs>

► Average Growth

State Standard: 80%
Our School: 81.0%

Did our students meet the state's expectation for academic growth? Each student is expected to perform as well (or better) on the End-of-Grade assessment as he or she did, on average, during the previous two years. Average Growth for a school is calculated by comparing actual performance to expected performance and then averaging the difference across all students and all subjects. The score above reflects the combined growth rate of all of our students. To make expected growth, a school must have a score of 80% or higher.

► Students Making or Exceeding a Year's Worth of Growth

State Standard: 60%
Our School: 54.8%

Did our students learn as much as they were expected to learn this year? As described above, the state sets expectations for each student based on individual performance for the previous two years. Across the state, about half of students typically meet or exceed this growth expectation. To earn the high-growth designation, a school must meet the average-growth standard described above and also have more than 60% of its students make expected growth.

► Amount of Growth for Students in the Lowest Achieving Group

Our School: 77.1%

Are we helping our low achievers catch up? Historically, some poor and minority students have trailed their classmates in academic achievement. This is called the achievement gap, and closing it is one of the biggest challenges in public education. If the lower-achieving students at a school show academic growth at a faster rate than higher-achieving students, the achievement gap is narrowed. When the percentage for this measure is higher than the Average Growth for the school, the school is closing the achievement gap.

► Positive Responses to Multiple Student Survey Items

Our School's Results:	Safety	86%
	Encouragement	96%
	Engagement	95%

Do our students perceive this school as safe and welcoming? This measure is subjective—it is taken from a student survey.

▶ Eastway Middle School

In addition, several staff members attended a national differentiation conference. Differentiated instruction is a flexible teaching approach that adapts the curriculum to individual learning needs. At the same time, a team of teachers attended the North Carolina Teacher Academy in Research Triangle Park.

We have changed the daily schedule at Eastway to include time for enrichment, tutoring, intramurals and exploration of the arts. This should improve student achievement in all areas.

Eastway has a very well-trained and enthusiastic staff that is committed to the success of our students. Many of our teachers have completed, or are currently working on, advanced degrees. They are all experienced in working with middle school students. In fact, many of our teachers have qualified for state and local bonuses based on student growth over the last several years. They take great pride in creating an exciting, secure and flexible learning environment.

We are proud of the diversity (ethnic, religious, economic and academic) that is present in our student body. Our programs provide opportunities for all students to demonstrate growth in a supportive and challenging atmosphere. This is an environment where each student's strengths are noticed and weaknesses are addressed. We will build on this valuable diversity as we improve student achievement across the board.

Sincerely,
Anne Brinkley
Principal

What is the School Progress Report?

In 2006, we introduced the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools Strategic Plan 2010 outlining our vision and strategy to educate our students to compete locally, nationally and internationally.

The plan outlines seven areas of concentration: high academic achievement; effective educators; adequate resources and facilities; safe and orderly schools; freedom and flexibility with accountability; world-class service, and strong parent and community connections. This report summarizes how our school performed in the 2008-09 school year in making progress on these seven goals. On page 3, you will also find an explanation of federal and state accountability measures.

Educators and parents have a common goal of preparing our children to compete in an ever-growing global community. Working together requires frequent dialogue between school and parents, so please feel free to contact the principal or any staff member at our school.
