A Message from the Principal

To our Jay M. Robinson Middle School families:

This is the annual School Progress Report for Jay M. Robinson Middle. We are sending this to you so that you may be fully informed about our students' academic progress, our staff and our school environment.

The academic program at Robinson is among the best in the state. We provide significant academic challenges to all students as well as opportunities to augment local and state requirements with more rigorous learning opportunities. We set high expectations for performance, as you can see by our academic achievements, instilling in our students the desire never to settle for less than their best.

Robinson has consistently achieved High Growth and made Adequate Yearly Progress, the standard set for schools by the No Child Left Behind Act. We are designated an Honor School of Excellence and are recognized as a National School to Watch by the National Forum to Accelerate Middle-Grades Reform.

Jay M. Robinson employs practices that meet the physical, emotional, social and intellectual needs of all students by encompassing staff, students and parents within our school community. Students are organized by teams, with classes geographically located within steps of each other. Counselors are assigned to, and move with, the students through middle school to provide continuity and support.

The faculty at Robinson is highly qualified and rich in experience. Many of our teachers are National Board-certified and/or hold master's degrees. We have low teacher turnover, which brings consistency to our work. Teachers regularly use data to make informed decisions on scheduling. Classes are held on a 90-minute block schedule, rotating on an A day/B day basis. Language Arts and math are double-blocked and taught every day.

CMS Accountability Measures

The learning of students in public education is measured in multiple ways. There are assessments given at regular intervals by CMS—tests that we use to measure how students are learning as the school year progresses. Other tests are required by the state and given once or twice a year, such as End-of-Course and End-of-Grade tests. Some of the state test results are also used to calculate district progress on the federal standard of Adequate Yearly Progress for each student. This page provides brief explanations of some of the measures and tests used in CMS.

► Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP)

Our school DID make AYP
(29 of 29 goals met)

The federal No Child Left Behind Act requires that every school make Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP). AYP is an all-or-nothing standard: Every target must be met.

State test results are used to set AYP targets. There are separate targets for the school as a whole and for nine subgroups of students: white, black, Hispanic, Native American, Asian, multiracial, economically disadvantaged students, students with limited English proficiency and students with disabilities. Subgroups of students are measured separately so that an overall score for a class or a school does not mask poor results within a subgroup.

Some schools are more diverse than others, so the number of subgroups varies by school. Therefore, the number of AYP targets varies by school, too. Some schools may have only a few targets to meet; others may have the maximum, which is 41. School attendance and graduation rates are also measured for AYP.

For a more complete overview of AYP, visit www.dpi.state.nc.us/nclb/abcayp/overview/ayp

For details of AYP results for our school and its student groups, visit <http://ayp.ncpublicschools.org>

► ABC Designation

Our school's designation: Honor School of Excellence
(DID meet high growth expectations)

Proficiency: 95.4%

The North Carolina ABCs program was introduced more than a decade ago to help schools improve. It uses two basic measures to assess a school's performance: the Average Growth of students (at right); and the Performance Composite, which measures how well students performed against a state-set standard of academic achievement.

Schools are given one of seven designations. In descending order, they are: Honor School of Excellence, School of Excellence, School of Distinction, School of Progress, No Recognition, Priority School, and Low Performing.

For more information about ABCs, visit <http://abcs.ncpublicschools.org/abcs>

► Average Growth

State Standard: 80%
Our School: 86.9%

Did our students meet the state's expectation for academic growth? Each student is expected to perform as well (or better) on the End-of-Grade assessment as he or she did, on average, during the previous two years. Average Growth for a school is calculated by comparing actual performance to expected performance and then averaging the difference across all students and all subjects. The score above reflects the combined growth rate of all of our students. To make expected growth, a school must have a score of 80% or higher.

► Students Making or Exceeding a Year's Worth of Growth

State Standard: 60%
Our School: 78.9%

Did our students learn as much as they were expected to learn this year? As described above, the state sets expectations for each student based on individual performance for the previous two years. Across the state, about half of students typically meet or exceed this growth expectation. To earn the high-growth designation, a school must meet the average-growth standard described above and also have more than 60% of its students make expected growth.

► Amount of Growth for Students in the Lowest Achieving Group

Our School: 85.8%

Are we helping our low achievers catch up? Historically, some poor and minority students have trailed their classmates in academic achievement. This is called the achievement gap, and closing it is one of the biggest challenges in public education. If the lower-achieving students at a school show academic growth at a faster rate than higher-achieving students, the achievement gap is narrowed. When the percentage for this measure is higher than the Average Growth for the school, the school is closing the achievement gap.

► Positive Responses to Multiple Student Survey Items

Our School's Results:	Safety	94%
	Encouragement	99%
	Engagement	97%

Do our students perceive this school as safe and welcoming? This measure is subjective—it is taken from a student survey.

► Jay M. Robinson Middle School

Programs at Robinson are comprehensive and of high quality. Our teachers create application for knowledge, requiring thoughtful responses rather than simply focusing on facts. We encourage students to see patterns and connections in their learning. In all classes, we use a variety of teaching methods to convey the material and build a strong foundation of understanding. Didactic approaches are joined by cooperative groups, simulations, labs, productions, problem solving, reflection and performances. Teachers are encouraged to take academic risks, try new things and do whatever it takes to meet students' needs.

In extracurricular academic areas, students may pursue activities such as MathCounts team, Shakespeare Recitation, Battle of the Books, Chess Team and Science Olympiad (we are ranked first in the state and 21st in the nation). Fine and performing arts provide students a wide variety of creative outlets, including our highly talented jazz band, awesome musical productions and outstanding visual arts.

Robinson is a superior school with dedicated staff and students, and supportive parents and community. We strive to continue to grow and improve each year. We are confident that the educational approaches used here will continue to result in high academic performance by our students as we prepare them to be competitive in high school and in the global economy they will face in the future.

Sincerely,
Kathleen Fox
Principal

What is the School Progress Report?

In 2006, we introduced the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools Strategic Plan 2010 outlining our vision and strategy to educate our students to compete locally, nationally and internationally.

The plan outlines seven areas of concentration: high academic achievement; effective educators; adequate resources and facilities; safe and orderly schools; freedom and flexibility with accountability; world-class service, and strong parent and community connections. This report summarizes how our school performed in the 2008-09 school year in making progress on these seven goals. On page 3, you will also find an explanation of federal and state accountability measures.

Educators and parents have a common goal of preparing our children to compete in an ever-growing global community. Working together requires frequent dialogue between school and parents, so please feel free to contact the principal or any staff member at our school.
