A Message from the Principal

Dear families of Military & Global Leadership Academy at Marie G. Davis students:

This is the first school progress report for the Military & Global Leadership Academy. Our school was designed to provide students a challenging academic program that prepares them for success in school and beyond.

At the Military & Global Leadership Academy, we combine high academic rigor with a military base. We focus on the development of leadership, citizenship, physical fitness, global studies and technology. We are not set up as a remedial program for students struggling academically in traditional schools; instead, students who attend the academy should be able to demonstrate from their previous school experiences the ability to handle high academic expectations and advanced social skills.

The Military & Global Leadership Academy opened in 2008-2009 with students in grades six through 10. We served more than 300 students last year and expect more from the addition of an 11th-grade class this year. Grade 12 will be added in the 2010-2011 school year. We anticipate that our full complement of students will eventually number around 800.

Currently, the school serves as a county-wide magnet, focusing on JROTC and global studies programs. You will see from the demographic information on this page that our student population represents the diversity of the Charlotte community.

Much of our first year was devoted to creating the structures and climate conducive to success for all students. We believe this was

CMS Accountability Measures

The learning of students in public education is measured in multiple ways. There are assessments given at regular intervals by CMS—tests that we use to measure how students are learning as the school year progresses. Other tests are required by the state and given once or twice a year, such as End-of-Course and End-of-Grade tests. Some of the state test results are also used to calculate district progress on the federal standard of Adequate Yearly Progress for each student. This page provides brief explanations of some of the measures and tests used in CMS.

► Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP)

Our school DID NOT make AYP
(10 of 13 goals met)

The federal No Child Left Behind Act requires that every school make Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP). AYP is an all-or-nothing standard: Every target must be met.

State test results are used to set AYP targets. There are separate targets for the school as a whole and for nine subgroups of students: white, black, Hispanic, Native American, Asian, multiracial, economically disadvantaged students, students with limited English proficiency and students with disabilities. Subgroups of students are measured separately so that an overall score for a class or a school does not mask poor results within a subgroup.

Some schools are more diverse than others, so the number of subgroups varies by school. Therefore, the number of AYP targets varies by school, too. Some schools may have only a few targets to meet; others may have the maximum, which is 41. School attendance and graduation rates are also measured for AYP.

For a more complete overview of AYP, visit www.dpi.state.nc.us/nclb/abcayp/overview/ayp

For details of AYP results for our school and its student groups, visit <http://ayp.ncpublicschools.org>

► ABC Designation

Our school's designation: Priority School
(DID NOT meet growth expectations)

Proficiency: 56.3%

The North Carolina ABCs program was introduced more than a decade ago to help schools improve. It uses two basic measures to assess a school's performance: the Average Growth of students (at right); and the Performance Composite, which measures how well students performed against a state-set standard of academic achievement.

Schools are given one of seven designations. In descending order, they are: Honor School of Excellence, School of Excellence, School of Distinction, School of Progress, No Recognition, Priority School, and Low Performing.

For more information about ABCs, visit <http://abcs.ncpublicschools.org/abcs>

► Average Growth

State Standard: 80%
Our School: 78.2%

Did our students meet the state's expectation for academic growth? Each student is expected to perform as well (or better) on the End-of-Grade assessment as he or she did, on average, during the previous two years. Average Growth for a school is calculated by comparing actual performance to expected performance and then averaging the difference across all students and all subjects. The score above reflects the combined growth rate of all of our students. To make expected growth, a school must have a score of 80% or higher.

► Students Making or Exceeding a Year's Worth of Growth

State Standard: 60%
Our School: 42.3%

Did our students learn as much as they were expected to learn this year? As described above, the state sets expectations for each student based on individual performance for the previous two years. Across the state, about half of students typically meet or exceed this growth expectation. To earn the high-growth designation, a school must meet the average-growth standard described above and also have more than 60% of its students make expected growth.

► Amount of Growth for Students in the Lowest Achieving Group

Our School: 76.9%

Are we helping our low achievers catch up? Historically, some poor and minority students have trailed their classmates in academic achievement. This is called the achievement gap, and closing it is one of the biggest challenges in public education. If the lower-achieving students at a school show academic growth at a faster rate than higher-achieving students, the achievement gap is narrowed. When the percentage for this measure is higher than the Average Growth for the school, the school is closing the achievement gap.

► Positive Responses to Multiple Student Survey Items

Our School's Results:	Safety	81%
	Encouragement	96%
	Engagement	91%

Do our students perceive this school as safe and welcoming? This measure is subjective—it is taken from a student survey.

Military & Global Leadership Academy at Marie G. Davis

time well spent, as the community at large now clearly understands the very high expectations set for our school.

With our emphasis on academic rigor, students are required to take and pass leadership, JROTC, world languages and certain honors courses in every year they are enrolled in the program. Furthermore, our staff members recognize that their own professional development and student academic achievement go hand in hand. Currently, 100 percent of the staff holds bachelor's degrees and 50 percent holds master's degrees.

The Military & Global Leadership Academy offers honors courses in English/Language Arts, math, science, social studies, Spanish II and JROTC III. We will soon be adding Advanced Placement (AP) courses in U.S. history and English language, and we plan to introduce other AP courses in the next school year. Additionally, we will offer Project Lead the Way for students in the middle grades and Arabic for students in grades six through nine.

We look forward to growing as a school and to seeing great increases in student achievement this year.

Sincerely,
Lawrance Mayes
Principal

What is the School Progress Report?

In 2006, we introduced the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools Strategic Plan 2010 outlining our vision and strategy to educate our students to compete locally, nationally and internationally.

The plan outlines seven areas of concentration: high academic achievement; effective educators; adequate resources and facilities; safe and orderly schools; freedom and flexibility with accountability; world-class service, and strong parent and community connections. This report summarizes how our school performed in the 2008-09 school year in making progress on these seven goals. On page 3, you will also find an explanation of federal and state accountability measures.

Educators and parents have a common goal of preparing our children to compete in an ever-growing global community. Working together requires frequent dialogue between school and parents, so please feel free to contact the principal or any staff member at our school.
