A Message from the Principal

To our Mint Hill Middle School families:

This is the second School Progress Report for Mint Hill Middle. We are sending this to you so that you may be fully informed about our students' progress, our staff and our school environment.

Mint Hill Middle exhibits many unique characteristics and serves a diverse group of students. We have a highly qualified staff, including 14 National Board-certified members and, last year, 30 percent of teachers held advanced degrees. Many other teachers are seeking advanced degrees and certifications, and all staff members are committed to professional growth.

At Mint Hill Middle, we foster the delicate transition in the middle years. Our staff empowers and motivates students to reach their potential and works to develop the whole child. As the new principal of the school, I will continue to encourage a positive culture in which strong relationships are nurtured. This philosophy is ingrained throughout the school so that we may offer the acceptance and recognition that helps maximize student achievement. We strive to celebrate and support our students and their efforts.

We have many reasons to be proud of our academic achievements. We set high expectations for performance, instilling a belief system within our students to be the best they can be every day. We are pleased to report that Mint Hill Middle has been designated a School of Distinction, achieving High Growth on the North Carolina End-of-Grade and End-of-Course tests. We continue to improve student achievement in math, with 92.2 percent of our students demonstrating proficiency in that subject. In addition, 100 percent of our students passed the End-of-Course test in algebra, which is a high school-level course.

CMS Accountability Measures

The learning of students in public education is measured in multiple ways. There are assessments given at regular intervals by CMS—tests that we use to measure how students are learning as the school year progresses. Other tests are required by the state and given once or twice a year, such as End-of-Course and End-of-Grade tests. Some of the state test results are also used to calculate district progress on the federal standard of Adequate Yearly Progress for each student. This page provides brief explanations of some of the measures and tests used in CMS.

► Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP)

Our school DID make AYP
(37 of 37 goals met)

The federal No Child Left Behind Act requires that every school make Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP). AYP is an all-or-nothing standard: Every target must be met.

State test results are used to set AYP targets. There are separate targets for the school as a whole and for nine subgroups of students: white, black, Hispanic, Native American, Asian, multiracial, economically disadvantaged students, students with limited English proficiency and students with disabilities. Subgroups of students are measured separately so that an overall score for a class or a school does not mask poor results within a subgroup.

Some schools are more diverse than others, so the number of subgroups varies by school. Therefore, the number of AYP targets varies by school, too. Some schools may have only a few targets to meet; others may have the maximum, which is 41. School attendance and graduation rates are also measured for AYP.

For a more complete overview of AYP, visit www.dpi.state.nc.us/nclb/abcayp/overview/ayp

For details of AYP results for our school and its student groups, visit <http://ayp.ncpublicschools.org>

► ABC Designation

Our school's designation: School of Distinction
(DID meet high growth expectations)

Proficiency: 87.2%

The North Carolina ABCs program was introduced more than a decade ago to help schools improve. It uses two basic measures to assess a school's performance: the Average Growth of students (at right); and the Performance Composite, which measures how well students performed against a state-set standard of academic achievement.

Schools are given one of seven designations. In descending order, they are: Honor School of Excellence, School of Excellence, School of Distinction, School of Progress, No Recognition, Priority School, and Low Performing.

For more information about ABCs, visit <http://abcs.ncpublicschools.org/abcs>

► Average Growth

State Standard: 80%
Our School: 84.4%

Did our students meet the state's expectation for academic growth? Each student is expected to perform as well (or better) on the End-of-Grade assessment as he or she did, on average, during the previous two years. Average Growth for a school is calculated by comparing actual performance to expected performance and then averaging the difference across all students and all subjects. The score above reflects the combined growth rate of all of our students. To make expected growth, a school must have a score of 80% or higher.

► Students Making or Exceeding a Year's Worth of Growth

State Standard: 60%
Our School: 67.4%

Did our students learn as much as they were expected to learn this year? As described above, the state sets expectations for each student based on individual performance for the previous two years. Across the state, about half of students typically meet or exceed this growth expectation. To earn the high-growth designation, a school must meet the average-growth standard described above and also have more than 60% of its students make expected growth.

► Amount of Growth for Students in the Lowest Achieving Group

Our School: 84.0%

Are we helping our low achievers catch up? Historically, some poor and minority students have trailed their classmates in academic achievement. This is called the achievement gap, and closing it is one of the biggest challenges in public education. If the lower-achieving students at a school show academic growth at a faster rate than higher-achieving students, the achievement gap is narrowed. When the percentage for this measure is higher than the Average Growth for the school, the school is closing the achievement gap.

► Positive Responses to Multiple Student Survey Items

Our School's Results:	Safety	92%
	Encouragement	98%
	Engagement	92%

Do our students perceive this school as safe and welcoming? This measure is subjective—it is taken from a student survey.

▶ Mint Hill Middle School

In 2008-09, Mint Hill Middle made Adequate Yearly Progress, the standard set for schools by the No Child Left Behind Act, by meeting all 37 of our targets.

Our educational philosophy is to promote higher-level thinking, student collaboration and a 21st-century approach to learning. It is our goal to prepare students for the global economy by covering the basics as well as encouraging problem solving, the use of technology and the gathering of real-world learning experiences. Teachers consistently use data to make informed scheduling decisions. Classes are held on a 90-minute block schedule, rotating on an A day/B day basis. Language arts and math are double-blocked and taught every day.

Mint Hill Middle has a stellar fine arts department, not to mention career and technical education and PE/health programs, all of which enrich educational experiences. Our school motto is "Continuing the Journey to Academic Excellence." We analyze our academic program to determine how to increase achievement for all of our students. In order to continue meeting the needs of our increasingly diverse student population, the staff has introduced a number of new programs and strategies.

We are one of 180 middle schools across the nation to be recognized as a School to Watch. This distinction demonstrates that we exemplify academic excellence, social equity and developmental responsiveness. While we are very proud of our accomplishments, we will continue to embrace the good-to-great mentality as we strive toward excellence.

Sincerely,
Amy Dellinger
Principal

What is the School Progress Report?

In 2006, we introduced the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools Strategic Plan 2010 outlining our vision and strategy to educate our students to compete locally, nationally and internationally.

The plan outlines seven areas of concentration: high academic achievement; effective educators; adequate resources and facilities; safe and orderly schools; freedom and flexibility with accountability; world-class service, and strong parent and community connections. This report summarizes how our school performed in the 2008-09 school year in making progress on these seven goals. On page 3, you will also find an explanation of federal and state accountability measures.

Educators and parents have a common goal of preparing our children to compete in an ever-growing global community. Working together requires frequent dialogue between school and parents, so please feel free to contact the principal or any staff member at our school.
