A Message from the Principal

To our Turning Point Academy families:

This is the annual School Progress Report for Turning Point Academy, formerly known as Derita Alternative School. This report is part of our efforts to keep you fully informed about our students' academic progress, our staff and our school environment.

I am pleased to report that Turning Point Academy made progress as measured by the End-of-Grade math, reading and science tests and the End-of-Course tests in English 1, Algebra 1, biology, U.S. history and civics and economics. As a result, our composite proficiency rate increased (although not to required state or district standards) from 16.6 percent to 19.9 percent (without retests).

So what are we doing to improve our students' academic progress? Teachers will be trained in strategies designed to improve student learning. These include using computers and other learning aids, creating plans to meet students at their individual learning levels and working together to accommodate the needs of all students. We anticipate these strategies will help enhance instruction in all subject areas and improve our students' skills.

Turning Point did not make Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP), the standard set for schools by the No Child Left Behind Act. To make AYP, a school must meet all of its targets, and we met two of eight. We are addressing the areas needing improvement by providing additional training to teachers, particularly in analyzing data to drive teaching. We are adjusting our schedule to provide tutoring during the school day, after school and on Saturdays, as well as revising our school improvement plan to include strategies to combat deficiencies.

CMS Accountability Measures

The learning of students in public education is measured in multiple ways. There are assessments given at regular intervals by CMS—tests that we use to measure how students are learning as the school year progresses. Other tests are required by the state and given once or twice a year, such as End-of-Course and End-of-Grade tests. Some of the state test results are also used to calculate district progress on the federal standard of Adequate Yearly Progress for each student. This page provides brief explanations of some of the measures and tests used in CMS.

► Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP)

Our school DID NOT make AYP
(2 of 8 goals met)

The federal No Child Left Behind Act requires that every school make Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP). AYP is an all-or-nothing standard: Every target must be met.

State test results are used to set AYP targets. There are separate targets for the school as a whole and for nine subgroups of students: white, black, Hispanic, Native American, Asian, multiracial, economically disadvantaged students, students with limited English proficiency and students with disabilities. Subgroups of students are measured separately so that an overall score for a class or a school does not mask poor results within a subgroup.

Some schools are more diverse than others, so the number of subgroups varies by school. Therefore, the number of AYP targets varies by school, too. Some schools may have only a few targets to meet; others may have the maximum, which is 41. School attendance and graduation rates are also measured for AYP.

For a more complete overview of AYP, visit www.dpi.state.nc.us/nclb/abcayp/overview/ayp

For details of AYP results for our school and its student groups, visit <http://ayp.ncpublicschools.org>

► ABC Designation

Our school's designation: NA
(DID meet growth expectations)

Proficiency: 21.7%

The North Carolina ABCs program was introduced more than a decade ago to help schools improve. It uses two basic measures to assess a school's performance: the Average Growth of students (at right); and the Performance Composite, which measures how well students performed against a state-set standard of academic achievement.

Schools are given one of seven designations. In descending order, they are: Honor School of Excellence, School of Excellence, School of Distinction, School of Progress, No Recognition, Priority School, and Low Performing.

For more information about ABCs, visit <http://abcs.ncpublicschools.org/abcs>

► Average Growth

State Standard: 80%
Our School: 73.4%

Did our students meet the state's expectation for academic growth? Each student is expected to perform as well (or better) on the End-of-Grade assessment as he or she did, on average, during the previous two years. Average Growth for a school is calculated by comparing actual performance to expected performance and then averaging the difference across all students and all subjects. The score above reflects the combined growth rate of all of our students. To make expected growth, a school must have a score of 80% or higher.

► Students Making or Exceeding a Year's Worth of Growth

State Standard: 60%
Our School: 27.7%

Did our students learn as much as they were expected to learn this year? As described above, the state sets expectations for each student based on individual performance for the previous two years. Across the state, about half of students typically meet or exceed this growth expectation. To earn the high-growth designation, a school must meet the average-growth standard described above and also have more than 60% of its students make expected growth.

► Amount of Growth for Students in the Lowest Achieving Group

Our School: 73.4%

Are we helping our low achievers catch up? Historically, some poor and minority students have trailed their classmates in academic achievement. This is called the achievement gap, and closing it is one of the biggest challenges in public education. If the lower-achieving students at a school show academic growth at a faster rate than higher-achieving students, the achievement gap is narrowed. When the percentage for this measure is higher than the Average Growth for the school, the school is closing the achievement gap.

► Positive Responses to Multiple Student Survey Items

Our School's Results: Not collected

Do our students perceive this school as safe and welcoming? This measure is subjective—it is taken from a student survey.

▶ Turning Point Academy

The Turning Point staff is highly qualified and includes 21 teachers, most of whom are certified, and two teacher assistants. We are fortunate to have added two additional teachers this school year. This strength in depth can only reinforce our entire program.

We have made considerable progress overall in our short history. We have increased our community partnerships from four to 28 and our parent-participation programs from four to 17. We have introduced a number of activities to build students' character and social skills. These include mentoring, motivational speakers/groups, leadership classes and field trips. In addition, the number of out-of-school suspensions decreased last year from nearly 1,300 to 836, thanks to our successful positive-behavior programs. Furthermore, we had a perfect score on the safe-school audit.

I am confident we will see a vast improvement in student achievement, behavior and attendance. The staff of Turning Point Academy has a renewed excitement and commitment to promoting student academic and behavioral success. It is our pledge to provide a safe and supportive environment that fosters respect, responsibility and pride in all students and staff.

Sincerely,
Valoria Burch
Principal

What is the School Progress Report?

In 2006, we introduced the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools Strategic Plan 2010 outlining our vision and strategy to educate our students to compete locally, nationally and internationally.

The plan outlines seven areas of concentration: high academic achievement; effective educators; adequate resources and facilities; safe and orderly schools; freedom and flexibility with accountability; world-class service, and strong parent and community connections. This report summarizes how our school performed in the 2008-09 school year in making progress on these seven goals. On page 3, you will also find an explanation of federal and state accountability measures.

Educators and parents have a common goal of preparing our children to compete in an ever-growing global community. Working together requires frequent dialogue between school and parents, so please feel free to contact the principal or any staff member at our school.
